Descriptif

Godox Speedlite TT350 Olympus/Panasonic

The Godox TT350 flash is a versatile and compact documentary flash for various cameras. In addition to automatic functions, you can also take advantage of manual setting options. With a built-in master and slave receiver, a retractable reflector, an omnibounce, extensive settings and support for lightning-fast shutter speeds up to 1 / 8000s, the TT350 is an ideal addition to your Canon equipment.

Rotatable and tiltable head for creative flash shooting with the TT350

The tiltable and rotatable flash head has a zoom range of 24 to 105mm. The zoom position can be set manually, but can also be automatically determined by the Godox TT350 when you zoom in or out with the lens. The power of the flash can be manually set from full power to 1 / 128th. The flash exposure compensation can be set in 1/3 steps over three stops. In addition to High Speed Synchronization, this documentary flash from Godox also supports flashes on the second curtain for creative end results. The TT350 offers fast charging times that vary between 0.1 and 2.2 seconds.

Connections and display

The large LCD display is a basis you can always rely on: everything you want to know is displayed. In a dark situation you can switch on the lighting of the display. The Godox TT350 is equipped with a Micro USB connection for possible firmware updates. All control buttons are logically positioned and the central wheel provides quick adjustment of the values.
